

Yes I read the article in the Trip Review and it sounds to me like the rehash of the old Highmark vs UPMC dispute. If you do your homework on the insurance coverage you have you don't go out of network for test required by your doctor. The problem is people don't pay attention and read their insurance information provided to them. Tell Ms. Nathan to "wake up and read the fine print" and don't waste my tax money on another government "big brother" funding your stupidity. Miller, we have enough government in our pockets and pretty soon our pants are going to fall down because our belts won't hold them up. Find something else to do with your idle time.

P. Vortish

██████████

Sent from Mail for Windows 10