

It is impossible and impractical for a patient to check to see whether very person who performs a service on them when in the hospital is an independent contractor. If the doctor is performing procedures in a hospital that is in-network, the patient should pay in-network fees. The hospital and doctor then needs to negotiate his payment.

Sent from my iPad